Land Component Command Message To the Soldiers

To the Soldiers of the Land Component Command,

I want to express my sincere gratitude for your dedication, resilience, and commitment to our mission throughout the year. Your efforts have continued to reflect the highest standards of excellence, and together, we have accomplished so much. This yearbook is a collection of moments and a reflection of the work accomplished in 2023 that will stand as a testament to future generations of Soldiers.

As we prepare for the year ahead, I encourage each of you to take this time to reset. Whether that means reconnecting with family, focusing on personal well-being, or reflecting on your own goals, it is important that we all take the necessary steps to recharge. A well-rested Soldier is a more effective Soldier, and your physical, mental, and emotional readiness remains a top priority.

The strength of our force lies in the talent and dedication of Soldiers like you. Your experience and leadership are invaluable to our mission, and we need every one of you as we continue to grow and evolve. I encourage you to stay engaged, communicate with your leaders, and explore the many opportunities the Guard has to offer, from career progression to education benefits and beyond.

Thank you for your service and sacrifice this past year. I'm proud to be part of this organization and serve with each of you. Let's continue to support one another, stay mission-focused, and enter the new year ready to take on whatever challenges lie ahead.

Stay safe, stay strong, and thank you for all that you do.

DC GUARD HISTORY

Established by President Jefferson, protects the nation's capital with a unique federal mission.

The D.C. National Guard has roots older than the District of Columbia, the active-duty military, and even the United States itself. Before the District existed, Citizen Soldiers formed militia units in Georgetown and Bladensburg. These militiamen fought and won the American War of Independence. Francis Scott Key served as a lieutenant with the Georgetown Artillery during the War of 1812. During the British bombardment of Baltimore Harbor, he went to Maryland to negotiate a prisoner exchange. Afterward, the ship's commander detained him, believing he had seen too much. As Key watched the attack unfold, he saw the flag flying above Fort McHenry and wrote the poem that became the lyrics to "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Defending the Nation: The Formation of District of Columbia National Guard

The Residence Act of 1790 established the creation of a new capital city instead of selecting an existing one. In 1801, the Organic Act designated Washington, D.C. as the capital of the United States, placing it under Congress's control.

President Thomas Jefferson played a key role in establishing the D.C. National Guard. He took office during a time of intense political strife, when the Commanding Generals of the two nearest militia units belonged to Jefferson's rival party. At the time, the regular army was small and stationed mostly at the borders. Jefferson worried that a state militia could use force to impose political will, potentially marching on the Capitol and undermining the government.

To address this vulnerability, Jefferson created the D.C. National Guard and handpicked its officers. In 1802, the D.C. National Guard held its first muster. Unlike any other National Guard, the D.C. Guard has a national mission: to protect the Federal Government.

Federal law assigns dual federal and state missions to the National Guard, but Washington, D.C., has no state governor. The District of Columbia National Guard reports solely to the U.S. President.
In 1949, Executive Order 10030 gave the Secretary of Defense authority over the D.C. National Guard, delegating the Secretary of the Army to manage its ground component and the Secretary of the Air Force to oversee its air component. The D.C. National Guard is the only U.S. military force empowered to function in a district status. It can assist in limited non-emergency situations or enforce martial law if local law enforcement loses control. The President or Congress can call the D.C. National Guard into federal service, at which point the U.S. President serves as Commander-in-Chief. The federal mission of the National Guard is to provide properly trained and equipped units for prompt mobilization during war, national emergencies, or as needed.

The new government had to determine how to protect its citizens. Many founding fathers envisioned a small standing army complemented by a large system of state-controlled militias. They believed a military force made up of the people would be more accountable to them. President George Washington, once a militiaman himself, supported this idea. In 1792, Congress officially recognized these militias, now known as the National Guard, as the backbone of the military.

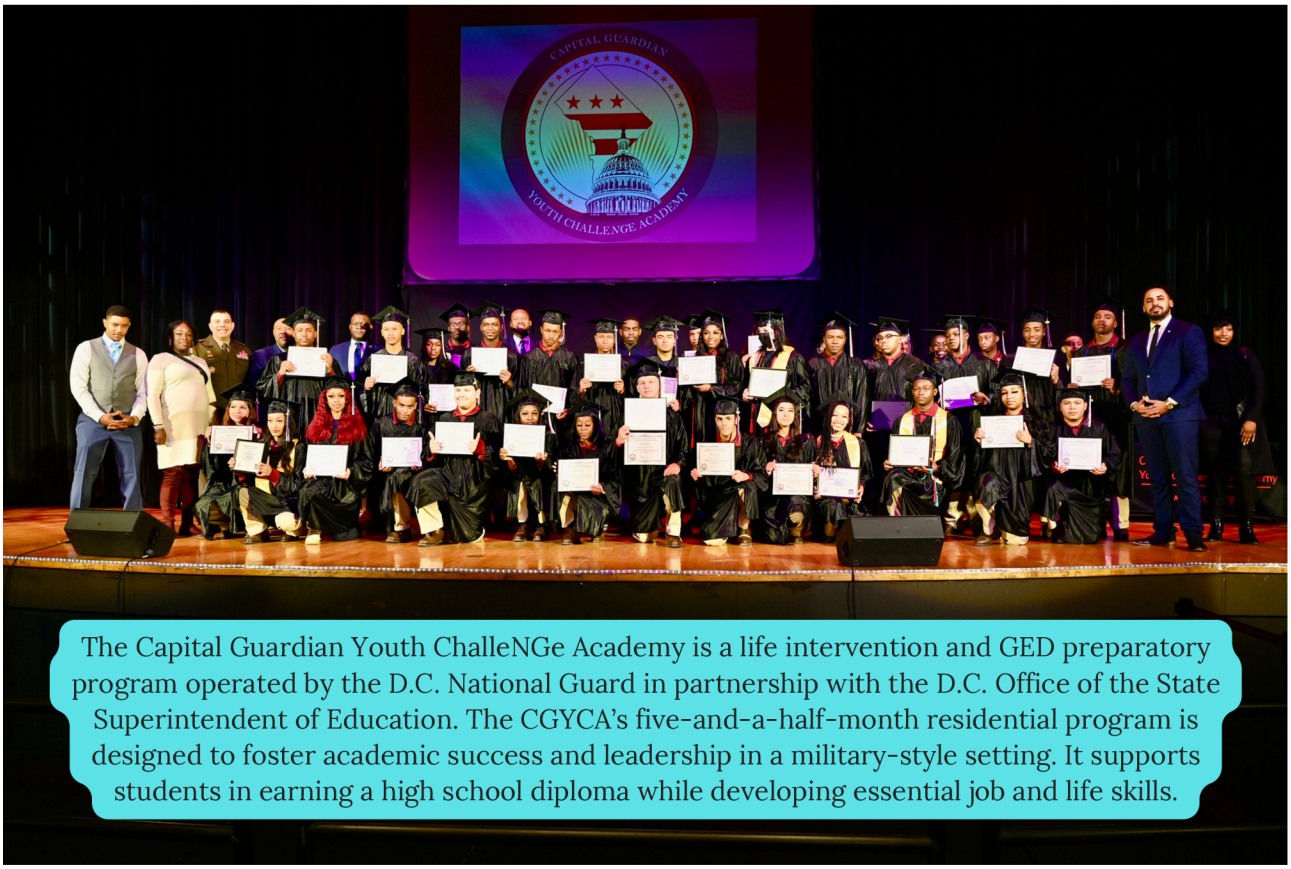

The D.C. National Guard has played a crucial role in defending the nation throughout its history, from the War of 1812 to the Civil War and beyond. In the War of 1812, the fledgling D.C. Militia faced significant challenges, ultimately witnessing the burning of the nation's capital. During the Civil War, the D.C. National Guard became the first to respond, defending Washington, D.C. from Confederate forces and manning forts that encircled the city.

Throughout the 20th century, the D.C. National Guard demonstrated its readiness and resilience, participating in major conflicts including World Wars I and II, the Korean War, and the Cold War. The 121st Combat Engineers landed on the beaches of Normandy on D-Day, while other units supported the Berlin Crisis and Vietnam operations. The Guard remained prepared to defend both the capital and the nation, with personnel called to serve during critical events, including the attacks of September 11, 2001.

The D.C. National Guard's mission extends beyond wartime, playing a vital role in maintaining public order and supporting the community. The Capital Guardians responded to civil unrest during the 1960s, provided disaster relief during hurricanes and blizzards, and have been present at numerous national events. Today, the D.C. National Guard continues to protect the nation's capital and support the Global War on Terror, embodying a legacy of service, sacrifice, and unwavering commitment to the defense of freedom.

The Capital Guardian Youth ChalleNGe Academy is a life intervention and GED preparatory program operated by the D.C. National Guard in partnership with the D.C. Office of the State Superintendent of Education. The CGYCA's five-and-a-half-month residential program is designed to foster academic success and leadership in a military-style setting. It supports students in earning a high school diploma while developing essential job and life skills.

74TH TROOP COMMAND, HHC

UNIT MISSION

The 74th Troop Command is a brigade-level command of the District of Columbia Army National Guard that provides logistical and administrative support for nonorganic deploying units in the DCNG that are not structured under another formation headquarters. It is the largest direct reporting unit in the DCARNG. The command is a subordinate of the D.C. Joint Force Headquarters.

UNIT HISTORY

TThe D.C. National Guard's 1st Separate Infantry Battalion, an all-Black unit, distinguished itself as one of the most trusted fighting forces in World War I. This battalion was incorporated into the 372nd Infantry Regiment under the French 157th "Red Hand" Infantry Division, where it saw extensive combat. Selected specifically for its unwavering loyalty and dedication, the 1st Separate Infantry Battalion made a notable impact as part of the esteemed Red Hand Division.

Throughout both World Wars, D.C. National Guard units joined forces with the neighboring 29th Infantry Division, comprising members of the Virginia and Maryland National Guards. The 715th Truck Company later saw action in Korea, famously establishing their company's orderly room, "Blair House," and flying a D.C. flag over the Korean Peninsula on December 8, 1951. The legacy of service continued through the 74th Troop Command, which deployed units overseas in support of the United States Army in every major conflict during the Cold War era.

104TH MAINTENANCE COMPANY

UNIT MISSION

The 104th Maintenance Company is a direct reporting unit within 74th Troop Command of the D.C. Army National Guard. As a Support Maintenance Company, the overall mission is to provide field maintenance support to units in their area of operation; support includes low density and limited recovery support to units above the brigade-level. The Support Maintenance Company is a tailored maintenance capability and can consist of up to 240 soldiers assigned/attached to its internal structure; five sections and 13 military occupational codes.

The company has completed multiple overseas missions to Germany, participated in civil operations in the National Capital Region and supported active duty components with maintaining and meeting their mandatory level of readiness.

UNIT HISTORY

The 104th Maintenance Company traces its lineage back to the 104th Medium Maintenance Company which served on the frontlines during WWII. Major General Errol R. Schwartz served as a platoon leader in the 104th Maintenance Company from 1979 to 1984. In 2014, the 104th Maintenance Company assisted the South Carolina National Guard in using obsolete military vehicles to build artificial reefs along the state's coastline.

547TH TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

UNIT MISSION

The 547th Transportation Company “Rough Riders” serve the District of Columbia and the Nation by providing transportation support for the movement of bulk cargo, containers and personnel; and conducting local haul and line haul transport operations. The company is located at Joint Base Anacostia-Bolling in southeast Washington, with the motto, “You Call, We Haul."

The proud men and women of the 547th Transportation Company were the first D.C. National Guard unit to deploy into combat in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. Over the 15 month deployment, the unit was credited for supporting the 3rd Infantry Division, 1st Armored Division, 4th Infantry Division and the 82nd Airborne Division.

UNIT HISTORY

The unit was constituted 12 January 1972 in the District of Columbia Army National Guard as Company B, 1st Battalion, 380th Infantry. The unit was converted and redesignated 1 October 1975 as the 547th Transportation Company. They were awarded the Army Superior Unit Award for service in 2008 - 2009.

372ND MILITARY POLICE, HHD

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

The 372nd Military Police Battalion is comprised of a Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, the 273rd Military Police Company, and the 276th Military Police Company, all part of the District of Columbia Army National Guard.

The 372nd Military Police Battalion deals with crimes committed on D.C. National Guard property or any illegal activity involving members of the D.C. National Guard. Trained as Soldiers and police officers, the battalion plays a crucial role in conducting traffic control, corrections, security and mobility support, especially during National Special Security Events, like Presidential Inaugurations and when deployed, such as the 276th Military Police Company's deployment to Guantanamo Naval Base, Cuba in 2016.

UNIT HISTORY

The 372nd Military Police Battalion traces its lineage back to the 1st Separate Regiment. The 1st Separate Regiment was mustered into service and renamed the 372d Infantry in 1917. They were attached to the French army's 157th "Red Hand" Division. The Soldiers fought in Meuse-Argonne, Lorraine and Alsace, where they were awarded the Croix de Guerre—one of the highest honors of the French Military. The unit was given the Red Hand name as an honor, which the 372nd Military Police Battalion still uses.

273RD MILITARY POLICE COMPANY

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

The 273rd Military Police Company is a unit aligned under the 372nd Military Police Battalion, District of Columbia Army National Guard. The 273rd Military Police Company is one of the most esteemed units of the District of Columbia Army National Guard. The company supports and augments nearly all major federal events occurring in the District of Columbia. Historically, the company plays a key role in supporting Presidential Inaugurations and the Independence Day celebrations by providing traffic control points, as well as security and mobility support in coordination with local and federal law enforcement agencies. The unit has also been tasked for assistance in supporting community events and overseeing peaceful marches and rallies in the Nation's Capital. The unit has received two Army Superior Unit Awards, streamer embroidered, in 1996-1997 and in 2008-2009.

UNIT HISTORY

The 273rd Military Police Company traces its lineage back to December 3, 1946, when the unit was organized and federally recognized as Company C, 163rd Military Police Battalion. On September 3, 1950, during the wake of the Korean War, the company was ordered into active federal service until July 2, 1952. On February 1, 1974, the company was re-designated as the 274th Military Police Company. The unit saw federal service in both the first Gulf War and second Gulf War, as well as the Global War on Terror until September 1, 2007, where the 274th Military Police Company and other elements were consolidated into the newly formed 273rd Military Police Company. Under the new guidon of the 273rd Military Police Company, the unit saw its return to the battlefield in 2012, again deploying in support of the Global War on Terror.

276TH MILITARY POLICE COMPANY

UNIT MISSION

The 276th Military Police Company falls in under the 372nd Military Police Battalion and operates out of the District of Columbia National Guard Armory in southeast Washington. The 276th Military Police Company's operates as a Detention Company with two correction/detention platoons and one headquarters platoon.

While the 276th Military Police Company establishes itself as a strong detention company through its involvement with law and order missions such as the Pope Mission, Presidential Inauguration Missions, and National Special Security Events, the company trains year round for future detention deployments.

UNIT HISTORY

The 276th Military Police Company can trace its lineage back to 1947 when the unit was officially organized and federally recognized as Company A, 171st Military Police Battalion. In 1950, the unit was ordered into active federal service in the District of Columbia on September 11, 1950, and released from active federal service July 10,1952. The unit then reverted to District of Columbia National Guard. It wasn't until 1972 when the unit was reorganized and re-designated as the 276th Military Police Company. The unit was activated again on June 24, 1991 in support of Operation Dessert Storm, on January 30, 2003 to support Operation Noble Eagle at Bolling Air Force Base Washington, and lastly in April 2015 in support of Operation Enduring Freedom in Kuwait.

257TH ARMY BAND

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

The “Band of the Nation’s Capital”, the 257th Army Band, boasts a proud lineage going back to the legendary Corcoran Cadets of 1883, the DC militia that inspired John Philip Sousa to compose his march of the same name. Within the 257th Army Band, there are several musical groups which play a variety of music including classical, jazz, rock and many others. In addition to the concert band, they have multiple music performance teams, including: jazz combo, rock band, ensemble, brass quintet and duet teams.

The ensemble faithfully continues to provide musical support for the DCNG while proudly representing both the Guard and its home city throughout the world.

UNIT HISTORY

The 257th Army Band's history goes back to Corcoran Cadets militia which operated in D.C. in the 1800s. Through a series of mergers of that unit's band with other organizations with marching bands such as the 121st Engineers in 1921, and the 260th Coastal Artillery Unit in 1939, the band was consolidated in 1959 as the 91st Army Band in 1959, before getting its current name and title later on in the century. In 2005, Commander CW2 Sheila M. Klotz petitioned the Center of Military History to add, by virtue of the fact that the DCNG Band is the only military band belonging to the Nation's Capitol, with concurrence of Commanding General David F. Wherley, she submitted a memorandum requesting approval of the title "The Band of the Nation's Capitol" to the 257th Army Band, defining its uniqueness among the DC Military Bands. The memorandum was approved and the title remains a subsequent name of the unit.

1946TH FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT SUPPORT DET

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

lThe 1946th Financial Management Support (FMS) Detachment is committed to providing reliable, accurate, and timely financial services to support the mission readiness of the DC Army National Guard. The unit ensures the efficient management of funds, accountability, and financial compliance, enabling soldiers and leader to focus on operational priorities. With a dedication to excellence and integrity, the 1946th FMS Detachment upholds the highest standards of financial stewardship to support the Guard's personnel and mission objectives.

UNIT HISTORY

The 1946th Financial Management Support Detachment was officially activated as part of the DC Army National Guard during a ceremony Oct. 17, 2020. The finance corps is in charge of financial operations, including payroll and monetary allocation. In June 2023 the unit departed for a nine-month deployment to Camp Bondsteel, Kosovo, providing financial management support to Kosovo Forces assigned to the NATO peacekeeping mission.

1380TH AND 140TH ENGINEER DET

UNIT MISSION

The 1380th Higher Headquarters Detachment - 140th Well Water Engineer Detachment's primary mission is an exploratory well that is dug with a two truck team, penetrating 150 to 200 feet into the ground to establish and sustain a water table. Engineering is a specialty in three military branches and the 1380th - 140th Engineer Detachment is one of seven of these unique units.

The units also have a have a secondary mission.

- Horizontal engineering: Building bridges and setting roads

These complementary missions allow the DC National Guard to assist local communities during a natural disaster or act in support of humanitarian relief missions abroad in addition to other capabilities the organization offers.

UNIT HISTORY

The District of Columbia activated two engineer detachments in 2019, The 1380th Engineer Detachment and the 140th Engineer Detachment. The 1380th Engineer Detachment is the headquarters component for the 140th Drilling Engineer Detachment. Both units specialize in well drilling. The United States Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) traces its lineage back to the American Revolution when on 16 June 1775, the Continental Congress, gathered in Philadelphia, granted authority for the creation of a "Chief Engineer for the Army". Congress authorized a corps of engineers for the United States on 11 March 1779. The Corps as it is known today came into being on 16 March 1802, when the president was authorized to "organize and establish a Corps of Engineers.

642ND QUARTERMASTER DET

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

From the dignity-preserving work of recovering our Nation's fallen on the battlefield to ensuring supplies are ordered and delivered, Quartermaster Officers are logistics professionals who support victory for the United States Army.

Quartermaster Officers command, direct, plan and implement materiel management and integration into the overall Department of Defense logistics system. They are responsible for service support functions including, but not limited to, graves registration, clothing and textile renovation, laundry and bath and aerial delivery. They direct and supervise the collection, evacuation and accountability for all classes of supply classified as salvage, surplus, abandoned or uneconomically repairable.

UNIT HISTORY

The 642nd Quartermaster Det. was activated under 74th Troop Command of the DC National Guard in 2021. The Quartermaster Corps traces its origins to 16 June 1775 when Congress authorized a Quartermaster General and his deputy, in recognition of the need for logistical support to the new Army. World War I showed the increased importance of logistics in the modern era, and witnessed the first use of specialized Quartermaster units in France, including laundry, bath, salvage depots, and port operations. In 1950, the Quartermaster Corps moved swiftly to support the United States and its UN allies in South Korea and assumed a new mission-supply by air-which often proved crucial to the sustainment of troops on the Korean peninsula. With the creation of the Army Materiel Command in 1962 the Quartermaster Corps transferred responsibility for wholesale logistics to this new organization.

715TH/DC PUBLIC AFFAIRS DETACHMENT

UNIT MISSION

The 715th Public Affairs Detachment (PAD) is a direct reporting unit of the 74th Troop Command, the brigade within the District of Army Columbia National Guard.

The 715th Public Affairs Detachment is commanded by a captain and includes seven Soldiers. Due to its small size, the 715th Public Affairs Detachment supports the brigade and its units through developing news and information products for the supported unit and higher echelons.

Additional responsibilities include capturing digital imagery to support news products; training, advising and assisting leaders and soldiers interacting with or supporting civilian news media within the area of operations; planning, developing and implementing strategy to support civilian news media and facilitate news gathering efforts throughout the supported unit's area of operations; coordinating, assisting or conducting press conferences and briefings.

UNIT HISTORY

The 715th Public Affairs Detachment traces its lineage back to the 715th Truck Company, which became one of the few National Guard units to mobilize for the Korean War. The company later became the 715th Public Affairs Team comprised of a commander and four Soldiers.

The 715th Public Affairs Detachment was one of two units from the D.C. National Guard called upon to support Operation Joint Endeavor, the peacekeeping mission in Bosnia. In 2018, it received the D.C. National Guard Unit of the Year award. In 2022 the unit supported SOUTHCOM's TRADEWINDS 2022 multinational Exercise in Belize.

223RD MILITARY INTELLIGENCE

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

ln a strategic move to bolster the nation's defense capabilities and address emerging security challenges, the District of Columbia Army National Guard officially activated Delta Company, 223rd Military Intelligence Battalion (LING), during a ceremony at the D.C. Armory on Dec. 9, 2023

This new addition under the 74th Troop Command, which is synonymous with high-visibility missions, including the COVID-19 mission, First Amendment demonstrations, and Presidential Inaugurations, will contribute to national security by providing intelligence and linguistic support to all Army echelons. The activation comes amid a rapidly changing threat landscape, marked by technological advancements and requiring a more agile and adaptable intelligence response.

UNIT HISTORY

The unit was previously part of the Massachusetts Army National Guard and earned a Meritorious Unit Commendation for efforts in Operation Iraqi Freedom leading to the capture of Saddam Hussein. During their deployment to Kosovo, the unit was responsible for multiple multinational intelligence collection teams.

MEDICAL DETACHMENT

UNIT MISSION

The District of Columbia Army National Guard Medical Command/Detachment (MED COM/DET) ensures the medical readiness of all the District of Columbia Army National Guard Soldiers in support the District of Columbia, federal agencies and the nation's leaders. The MED COM/DET maintains a highly trained and well equipped medical team that can assess and promote medical readiness, as well as fulfill the mission of role one medical support for local responses.

DC MED COM/DET consists of highly qualified and dedicated medical professionals, including doctors, nurses, dentists, physician assistants, behavioral health officers, nurses, medical service corps officers, medics and civilian medical support personnel, all working in concert helping to ensure that the D.C. Army National Guard is always medically ready to deploy its forces at a moment's notice.

UNIT HISTORY

The Continental Congress created the Medical Department in 1775 to provide a corps of physicians for the Continental Army. The term "Medical Corps" was officially designated by Congress in 1908, though it had been used informally by physicians in the AMEDD for some time. The Medical Research and Materiel Command was established in 1994 by merging the Medical Research and Development Command, Medical Material Agency, and Health Facilities Planning Agency. The MEDCOM became fully operational in October 1994. In 1996, the Health Services Support Areas (HSSAs) were renamed Regional Medical Commands, and then Regional Health Commands in 2016.

MULTI-AGENCY AUGMENTATION COMMAND

UNIT MISSION

The Multi-Agency Augmentation Command (MAC) is a command aligned under the of the District of Columbia Army National Guard. It provides trained personnel for staff augmentation and operational support to Headquarters, Department of the Army, Operations Center (AOC), the Alternate Army Operations Center (AAOC), the Domestic Operations Support Division (DOMS), the National Guard Coordination Center (NGCC), ARNG Domestic Operation Center, National Guard Bureau – Legislative Liaison (NGB-LL) and other Operations Centers in support of routine, national crisis or wartime requirements. The MAC also supports National Special Security Events and the State of the Union Address. As required, the Command provides staff capability packages to augment the DCNG, Joint Task Force for Domestic Support to Civil Authorities operations.

UNIT HISTORY

Founded in 1997, the Mobilization Augmentation Detachment of the DC National Guard primary mission was to support the National Guard Bureau Operations Staff and Emergency Operations Center in Arlington, Virginia. On 27 September 2001, following the 9/11 terrorist attacks on America, the unit was the first Army Reserve component mobilized to support the Global War on Terrorism. Due to the MAC's quality of performance and commitment to missions, a decision was made by the commanding general, to expand the unit into a Command, with a larger role, and opportunities for over 100 officers and NCOs. The MAC is heavily involved in operations throughout the National Capital Region.

33RD CIVIL SUPPORT TEAM

UNIT MISSION

The 33rd Civil Support Team is a key element of the Department of Defense's overall program to provide support to civil authorities in the event of an incident involving weapons of mass destruction (WMD) in the United States. The general mission of the Civil Support Team is to support civil authorities at a domestic Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, and high yield explosive (CBRNE) or a natural / man-made disaster incident site

The CST can rapidly deploy, assist local first-responders in determining the nature of a WMD or CBRNE incident, provide medical and technical advice, and pave the way for the identification and arrival of follow-on state and federal military response assets. The CST provides initial advice on what the agent may be, assists first responders in the detection and assessment process, and are the first military responders on the ground, so that if additional state/federal resources are called into the situation, they can assist with coordination.

UNIT HISTORY

The 33rd CST is one of 57 such units in the country and is equipped with a wide range of the latest military and commercial CBRN equipment. It is made up of 22 full-time Army and Air National Guard personnel who bring a wide range of military skills as well as career experience from the civilian sector. The unit is divided into six sections: command, operations, communications, administration/logistics, medical/analytical and survey.

MEDICIAL AMBULANCE UNIT

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

Detachment 1, Company G 3/126th Aviation Regiment is a District of Columbia Army National Guard combat unit, providing air ambulance medical evacuation services to soldiers on the frontline across the globe. The unit is comprised aviators, flight paramedics, aircraft crew chiefs, and flight operations personnel that are handpicked to serve in this elite unit. This unit provide quality aeromedical evacuation capabilities during peacetime, national emergencies, or overseas contingency operations.

A Company 1-224th Aviation Regiment is equipped to support homeland security and defense missions providing aviation support to federal or state authorities with air movement of personnel, equipment, and supplies. It is designed to offer reconnaissance and observation in support of counter-narcotic operations, and drug interdiction support to local law enforcement agencies. This unit can provide medical evacuation, search and rescue, and aviation support to the CST. It can also provide aerial command, control and communications assistance during state operations.

UNIT HISTORY

The 224th Aviation was constituted on 1 October 1987 in the Maryland and Virginia Army National Guards and included the 1st Battalion and Companies D, E, and F, part of the 29th Infantry Division. In 2012 the regiment was reorganized to include elements from the Maryland, District of Columbia, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Virginia, and West Virginia Army National Guards in its two battalions.

The 126th's lineage includes that of the 122nd Aviation Battalion due to consolidation. The battalion was originally organized and Federally recognized on 18 November 1946 in the Rhode Island National Guard as the Medical Detachment, 43d Division Artillery. The 126th Aviation Regiment was reorganized and now consists of the 1st and 2d Battalions and Company F, and Company G.

RECRUITING AND RETENTION BATTALION

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

The Recruiting and Retention Battalion of the District of Columbia Army National Guard is committed to building a strong, diverse, and resilient force that reflects the values and dedication of our nation's capital. The battalion identifies and retains motivated individuals ready to serve, support, and protect communities and country. Through innovative recruiting efforts, impactful mentorship, and unwavering support, the battalion empowers soldiers to achieve their fullest potential, ensuring the readiness and future success of the DC Army National Guard.

UNIT HISTORY

The United States Army Recruiting Command (USAREC), located at Fort Knox, Kentucky, is responsible for the recruitment and accession of new Soldiers for the United States Army and Army Reserve. Recruiting for the U.S. Army began in 1775 with the raising and training of the Continentals to fight in the American Revolutionary War. The Command traces its organizational history to 1822, when Major General Jacob Jennings Brown, commanding general of the Army, initiated the General Recruiting Service. In 1969, President Nixon appointed a commission to develop a comprehensive plan for eliminating conscription and moving toward an All-Volunteer Armed Force as it is today.

UNIT MISSION AND HIGHLIGHTS

The Joint Staff assists the Commanding General in accomplishing his responsibilities for strategic direction of the D.C. National Guard forces, their operation under unified command, and their integration into an efficient team of land and air forces. The Joint Staff is composed of Army and Air National Guard personnel. The Joint Staff acts as the D.C. National Guard's channel of communication to and from the National Guard Bureau, Department of Defense and subordinate units.

UNIT HISTORY

For over 200 years, the District of Columbia National Guard has held the vital responsibility of protecting the Nation's Capital. Through times of peace and times of war, the D.C. National Guard has honored its commitments to the nation and the District of Columbia. The D.C. National Guard has been there from the fields of France and the beaches of Normandy, to the skies above D.C. on 9/11, and is still there, ready and vigilant. Service in the D.C. National Guard is part of a long tradition of dedication, bravery and valor. Our Guardsmen are connected to these Soldiers and Airmen of the past not just through the flags they carry or the patches they wear, but through their commitment to serve their community.

STATE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

The State Partnership Program (SPP) is a joint program of the United States Department of Defense (DoD), The U.S. State Department, and the individual states, territories, and the District of Columbia. The SPP evolved from a 1991 U.S. European Command decision to set up the Joint Contact Team Program in the Baltic Region with Reserve component Soldiers and Airmen. Through SPP, the National Guard conducts military-to-military engagements in support of defense security goals but also leverages whole-of-society relationships and capabilities to facilitate broader interagency and corollary engagements spanning military, government, economic and social spheres.
The District of Columbia has partnerships with two countries—Jamaica and Burkina Faso.

TRAINING

U.S. Army and Air Force subject matter experts with the District of Columbia National Guard joined their Jamaican Defense Force (JDF) counterparts June 27-28 in Kingston, Jamaica to hold the annual JDF-DCNG planning meeting for the Defense Department's State Partnership Program (SPP), administered by the National Guard Bureau. The two organizations have been conducting military engagements, including subject matter expert exchanges, key leader engagements and familiarization visits since the partnership began in 1999.

STAFF RIDES & PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

STAFF RIDES

Army staff rides are invaluable tools for military units to delve into historical battles and campaigns, extracting profound lessons applicable to contemporary warfare. By physically immersing themselves in the terrain and circumstances of past conflicts, units gain a nuanced understanding of strategic decision-making, tactical maneuvers, and the human dimensions of war. Through critical analysis and discussion, staff rides foster a deeper appreciation for the complexities of military operations, honing leadership skills and enhancing unit cohesion. Additionally, they provide an opportunity for soldiers to connect with their heritage, instilling a sense of pride and identity within the organization. Ultimately, staff rides serve as a crucible for learning, enabling units to glean insights from the past to better prepare for the challenges of the future.

Select soldiers of the DC Army National Guard conducted a staff ride to follow the battle path of the 29th Infantry Division from D-Day to the eventual liberation of St. Lo, France.

OUR FALLEN SOLDIERS

In Loving Memory

SPC NAIDIA SMITH

August 1, 1993 - May 7, 2023

SGT VAUGHN JOHNSON

March 31, 1994 - July 31, 2023

In solemn remembrance, we honor the selfless dedication and courage of our fallen Guardsmen. They wore the uniform with pride, embodying values that reached beyond themselves, committed to a cause that united us all. Though they are no longer by our side, their spirit remains forever woven into the fabric of our service, reminding us of the enduring strength and sacrifice that define the National Guard.

As we close the chapter on another remarkable year, it's with immense pride and gratitude that we reflect on the moments that have defined our journey together. This yearbook stands not just as a collection of photographs and memories, but as a testament to the unwavering dedication and commitment of each and every one of you.

From the heart of our nation's capital to the far reaches of our global missions, your bravery, resilience, and selflessness shine through in every image captured.

As editor, it's been an honor to curate these snapshots of camaraderie, leadership, and service. Each photo tells a story of sacrifice, triumph, and the unbreakable bond that unites us as members of the DC National Guard family.

Your dedication to duty and to one another inspires us all. As we turn the page to the next chapter, let us carry forward the spirit of excellence and unity that defines us, knowing that together, there is no challenge we cannot overcome.
